

CLARENCE HOUSE

When I first heard of “Homeopathy at Wellie Level” and the wonderful work that Christine Lees was doing to help farmers understand more about homeopathy and how to use it, I wanted to do all I could to support her.

We have used homeopathy on the Duchy Home Farm for many years now, but when we started, any information beyond books and the most basic details was hard to come by. There were no courses to send staff on, and with no practical support it was a time-consuming and often frustrating process. A three-day course in those early days would have helped immeasurably and that is why I wanted to do all I could to support “Homeopathy at Wellie Level” by offering the teaching facilities at the Duchy Home Farm.

I hope that we are playing our part, however small, in helping farmers to realize what a powerful tool homeopathy can be and what a difference it can make to the welfare of their stock. Certainly, we have found at the Duchy Home Farm that the benefits have been more than worthwhile. The treatment is gentle on the animal, it reduces the dangers of residues in the food chain and, of particularly good news to any farmer, it costs less.
